Begonia and her father Armando got kicked out of their rented apartment. Armando has an alcohol addiction and does not go to work. Begonia is still a minor. Becoming homeless transformed her and her father into superhumans, but they have yet to discover this!

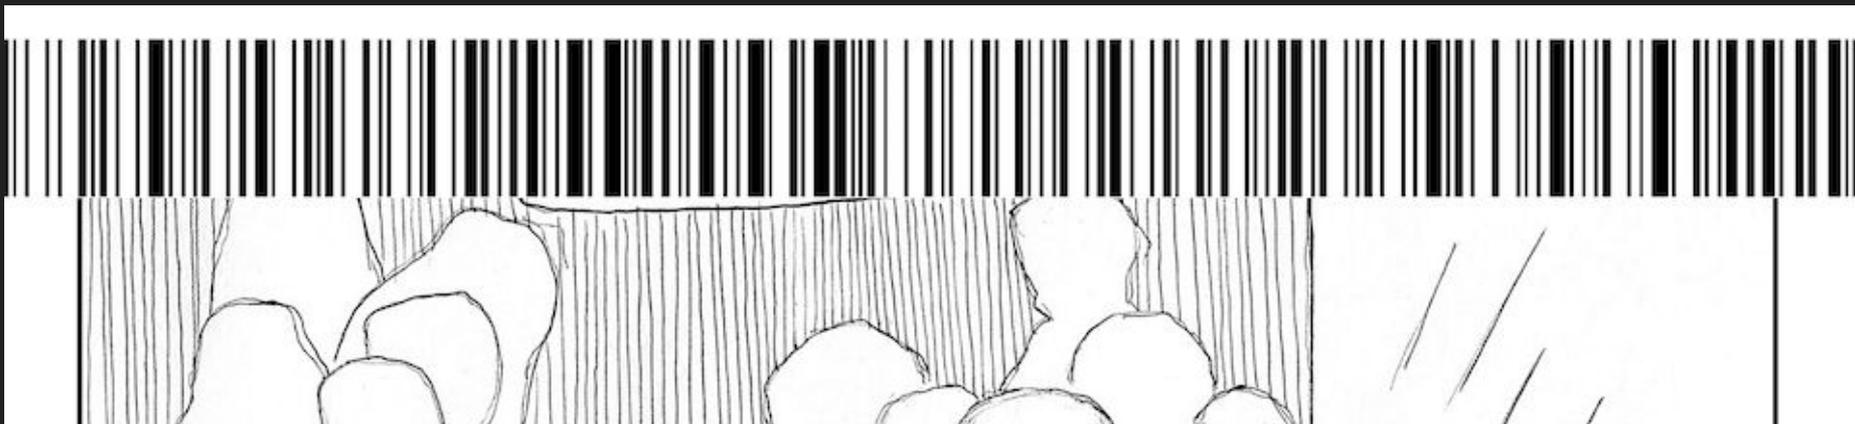

Question 1

1. The girl does not deserve such a faith. It's only the fault of her alcoholic father. (empathic, judgemental)
2. Why doesn't the government do something about this? (pragmatic)
3. Why wait till the last day and expect someone to solve your problems? (selfish)

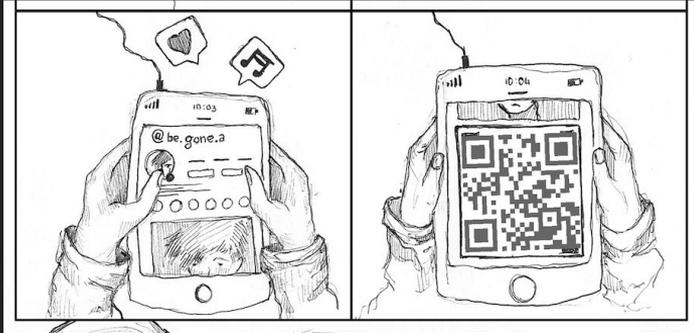

Begonia decides to ask for help at a local shelter.

Augmented scene 3

Her father is sleeping and so is the rest of the room. The aggressor that followed her collapses in a deep sleep.

Question 3

1. When they wake up, they better run from the shelter so that the aggressive employee does not take revenge on them. (selfish)
2. When they wake up they should report the incident to the police although this means they will not be welcome in the shelter anymore. (empathic)
3. When they wake up, they should make amends with the aggressor and find a way to stay in the shelter. (pragmatic)

Endings

- The aggressive employee is fired from the job. Begonia and her father are accommodated in the shelter and Begonia is employed full time in the shelter shortly after.
- Begonia and her father are accommodated in the shelter. They stay for a couple of days, but soon they will have to find other alternatives.
- Begonia and her father are kicked out because of the fight with the employee of the shelter.
